Nasser's Swoop

TRESIDENT Susser has declared war on communism in the UAR Only a week ago he hit out at Syrian Communists and now he rounds up 200 in Serio and Egypt. The implications of these moves are immense. Here is Nasser the firm friend of Khrushchev leaning on Russin for finance for his Aswan Dam, at the same time suppressing Moscow's supporters in his own country. How does he justify this paradox?

Communist aid has been pour Republies. Whatever she is doing mix at up with mobster Cobb, I don't know, but the film has my onlinion shared by Robert Taylor,

The old business of the hlp-Pask, the peep-hole in the speak-casy, the twin dead-pan killers, is all included, with the massacre episode reminiscent of St Valentine's Day epic. I enjoyed the film. Robert Taylor as the crippled lawman, working his artful jury persuading trick, limping his way through all the loopholes in the law, taking the jury for the metaphorical ride, is a good piece of acting.

Lee J. Cobb, hands out a nice performance as the affluent vulgar Rico Angelo, and an usual, dies a most violent death assisted by a bottle of acid and a fall through a window. Yet in spite of all the horror and violence I have not into this review, the film does not send you on your way with a morbid taste in the mouth.

For example, a new entrant joining at 21 would start at £550 instead of £445 a year; a new entrant of 23 would start at £625 instead of £557; and one of 25 at £700 instead of £630. REFORE we get down to the business of old newspaper reports, perhaps our readers would like to know something of the early days of Hongkong during the years 1841 to 1845 when the China Mail set up office. I have no intention of covering such ground as is covered by the many excellent histories on the subject. They were written by men who had such a taste for wading through ancient records, and had such leisure and resources for studying old maps.

But the great difference between what they had to do with Hongkong, I do achieved and what I am trying to do is that they not know. wrote for people who know not Hongkong, whereas these articles are written for those who are recent to the Colony and would like to know something of its origins.

don't they Eden lem)e

CIR Anthony Eden has left the shores of England for a holiday in Mexico. He must be taking with him some bitter thoughts.

During the last few months he has been increasingly referred to in contemptuous terms by those who in the days of his power would have thought themselves lucky to have a word with him. It has become the fashion to lay the whole blame of Suez upon his shoulders as if he was alone responsible for the calamity.

I myself have been dismayed at the attitude of some of my colleagues who now dismiss him without generosity or kindliness, yet who at the time of Suez were his most fervent supporters.

Let us remember

There are those who seem to take delight in dissociating themselves from all responsibility for an adventure in which they wholehearted-

I cannot see how members the present Government can now criticise the Suez operation with honour themselves.

Mr Selwyn Lloyd, worked for Sir Anthony at unpatalleled zeal, is quoted as having told a number of New York journalists of the blunders that had been made as if he himself was dissociated from them.

Mr Lloyd should immedicontradict this story, which cannot be true, as is in the highest traditions of British life that if one admits blunders one resigns.

FIRST DIVISION LEADERS OVER CRAIGENGOWER

By ROBERT TAY

After a two-week break for the Christmas festivities, the cricket league resumes this fittingly enough at this the beginning of a new year with no fewer than four interesting first division matches.

Most of those in action today will have undoubtedly made at least one "cricket resolution" -- not to be out for a duck this year --- and I can visualise their grim and determined faces as they try to shake off at the crease the effects of the week's surfeit and carry out their resolution.

two other resolution which talns might well give a thought could be made by our local to and that is to lead the team creiketers to the beneat of the into the spirit of the game and same here as whole. One is to not so much as playing to win try and play bright cricket at at all costs. all times. Not Recollections But Resolutions Should Be Policy For New Year

It is a new year. Convention has it that at such a time we should either look smugly back over what has happened in the old year or make ambitious resolutions which we hope will contribute something to the betterment of the new one.

The first pursuit is something of a luxury. It is true that it can be a pleasant luxury and even an entertaining pastime but this is surely the time when everyone in our sporting world should set about making positive resolutions if only as an expression of their determination to contribute something to the progress of the particular sport in which their interest lies.
